

What if I told you there's possibilities?

What if I told you
That life could hold you,
And caress you, and love you,
And fill you, and frame you?
What if I told you
That life missed your smile
And asked me if you
Would just stay for awhile?
What if I told you
That life gave you choice
To be who you wanted,
To lift up your voice?
What if I told you
That life saw your promise,
Your potential outstanding,
Would that offer solace?
If I told you the possibilities
That life offers you and me
Wouldn't you stay
And live for each day?
